Name:	Teacher:
Declaration of Independence Webquest Activity Page
Activity #1
1 st Question:
Answer:
Source:
2 nd Question:
Answer:
Source:
3 rd Question:
Answer:
Source:
Activity #2
(cause)	Congress sent King George III the Olive Branch Petition.

Name:	Teacher:
Activity #3
What role did John Adams play in the Independence?	2nd Continental Congress and with the Declaration of Activity #4
and the Continental Congress. Write b	e independence. Also look at the pictures of Independence Hall below what you would have done during this vote as a member a journal entry like the example provided.
July 4, 1776 Philadelphia, Pennsylvania
whether or not we as colonies will stay our independence and become our over experiment known as democracy. Will to be independent, but so many peopl	I had to cast my vote as a member of Congress to decide y under the rule of King George III, or whether we will declare wn country. If we do, I believe we will be a part of a great I we succeed? What if we fail? Who will save us? I want to vote le's lives and families depend on what I do here today. What is n is the right decision. I will vote to declare independence.

Which of these do you think is the coolest line from the Declaration of Independence? Which of these do you think is the coolest line from the Declaration of Independence? Be sure to cas your vote online! 1. We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. 2. Prudence*, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. 3. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations*, pursuing invariably the same object evinces* a design to reduce them under absolute despotism*, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. 4. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant*, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people. 5. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity*. We must, therefore, acquiesce* in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends. 6. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence*, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor. Why did you pick the line that you did?	Name	me: Teacher:
 Which of these do you think is the coolest line from the Declaration of Independence? Be sure to cas your vote online! We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Prudence*, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations*, pursuing invariably the same object evinces* a design to reduce them under absolute despotism*, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant*, is unfit to b the ruler of a free people. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity*. We must, therefore, acquiesce* in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence*, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor. 	Activ	ity #5
 We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Prudence*, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations*, pursuing invariably the same object evinces* a design to reduce them under absolute despotism*, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant*, is unfit to b the ruler of a free people. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity*. We must, therefore, acquiesce* in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence*, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor. 	What	was Thomas Jefferson's role in the writing of the Declaration of Independence?
 We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Prudence*, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations*, pursuing invariably the same object evinces* a design to reduce them under absolute despotism*, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant*, is unfit to b the ruler of a free people. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity*. We must, therefore, acquiesce* in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence*, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.
 by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Prudence*, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations*, pursuing invariably the same object evinces* a design to reduce them under absolute despotism*, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant*, is unfit to b the ruler of a free people. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity*. We must, therefore, acquiesce* in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence*, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.
 light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. 3. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations*, pursuing invariably the same object evinces* a design to reduce them under absolute despotism*, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. 4. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant*, is unfit to b the ruler of a free people. 5. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity*. We must, therefore, acquiesce* in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends. 6. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence*, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor. 	1.	by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the evinces* a design to reduce them under absolute despotism*, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. 4. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant*, is unfit to b the ruler of a free people. 5. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity*. We must, therefore, acquiesce* in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends. 6. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence*, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor. 	2.	light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms the ruler of a free people. 5. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity*. We must, therefore, acquiesce* in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends. 6. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence*, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor. 	3.	evinces* a design to reduce them under absolute despotism*, it is their right, it is their duty, to acquiesce* in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends. 6. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence*, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor. 	4.
Providence*, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.	5.	acquiesce* in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the
Why did you pick the line that you did?	6.
	Why o	did you pick the line that you did?
Word Helper*	Word	Helper*
prudence- carefulness usurpations- to use something without permission evinces- show clearly	prudei	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
despotism- abuse of power tyrant- a ruler who rules with cruelty and is unjust consanguinity- close connection acquiesce- agree in a reserved way

Divine Providence- acting according to what God wants